0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Must Have for any Adult Care SettingBy KJ PageGreat information presented in a readily understandable and useful manner. Great for preparing staff training! Great info for talking with family members, other residents and staff. Good solid care plan interventions

Equip yourself with the knowledge and tools to recognize, intervene, and prevent resident-to-resident bullying in elder care. Presented through a growing body of research as well as the voices and actual experiences of the targets and perpetrators of bullying, this book offers community-based or long-term care staff effective intervention strategies to address bullying, including empathy training, empowerment strategies, bystander intervention, and more. Practical resources and examples include: Learning activities, case studies, model intervention programs, sample forms and policy guidelines (including a Social Interaction Survey and a bullying assessment form also available as downloadable PDF files).

This book provides a foundation for understanding bullying behaviors among older adults and [fills] an important gap in a topic where so few other resources are available. --Mercedes Bern-Klug, Ph.D., M.S.W., M.A., John A. Hartford Geriatric Social Work Faculty Scholar, and Director, Aging Studies Program, University of Iowa This much needed resource is well researched and full of practical tools that can be used by a wide range of practitioners. Anyone who works with older adults should keep this handy as a practical reference in their day-to-day work. --Judah L. Ronch, Ph.D., Dean and Professor, Erikson School, Management of Aging Services, University of Maryland Baltimore County [This book] is an important reference in how to combat bullying. Bonifas offers advice on empathy training and organizational interventions. The book is academic, but written in a way that you feel as if you're chatting with a friend. --McKnight's Long-Term Care magazine About the Author Robin P. Bonifas, Ph.D., M.S.W., is currently Assistant Professor at Arizona State University School of Social Work and received her master's and doctoral degrees in social work from the University of Washington. She was named the John A. Hartford Faculty Scholar in Geriatric Social Work in 2011. As a social gerontologist, she is focused on long-term care, elder abuse, and the resilience of older adults.
