Disasters: More Than 100 Years of Fires, Floods, and Other Catastrophes (The Pruett Series):

Montana Disasters is real-life thriller. It will leave you with the breathless sense of how it feels to be caught in mining catastrophes, flash floods, train wrecks, and more. It will expose you to the sorrow and elation of victims' friends and families. Taut with the fury of calamities and the courageous efforts of men and women to save lives, Montana Disasters takes you to the scenes where the forces of nature and humans wreaked havoc.

About the Author Molly Searl was born and raised in Livingston, Montana. She shares a home with her husband, Frank, two cats, and a dog. She writes part-time, mostly short magazine articles that have appeared in Ranger Rick, Ford Times, Montana Magazine, Sierra, Cobblestone, and others. Excerpt. Reprinted by permission. All rights reserved. From Chapter One, "The Night the Earth Moved": On the other side of the giant landslide, most of the campers were awakened by the heaving and twisting ground. . . . The night was punctuated with cries from people who could not find their family members. One young man was pinned in a sitting position between the family car and trailer, and his father and fellow camper tried frantically to free him as the water rose. Just as the water reached the boy's chin, the trailer shifted enough so that he could be pulled free.
