Marian Rubin : Naked Truths before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Naked Truths:

9 of 9 people found the following review helpful. No Hyperbole Here!By Kay CThe average uninitiated reader will want to think that Ms Rubin's story is a bizarre exception to the US justice system.Not so! My husband is in prison for a similar non-crime, and in many ways her story is our story- except for the ending. She is in the "free world," but she will never be the same or see our country in the same way.All her naked truths are bitterly so, and readers should take them as a wake-up call. Not only in the area of over-interpreted photographs but in many other areas concerning

"justice" and the law, we live in a third world country. READ AND HEED!

Naked Truths is the true story of a New Jersey grandmother who was arrested for taking innocent nude photos of her two young granddaughters. Through the telling of her personal experiences in the clutches of the criminal justice system and child protective services, she raises serious questions about crucial issues that concern all of us: issues of privacy and censorship; of freedom of expression and the erosion of our First Amendment rights; of overzealous and wrongful prosecutions; and of our frenetic attempt to protect children in a very threatening world, often sacrificing the very children and families they claim to protect. Naked Truths is about a modern day witch hunt where innocent people are caught in a trap meant to catch actual pornographers and pedophiles; where film processors are vigilantes for the state and where the justice system has free rein to create havoc with no accountability. Naked Truths will tell you well-kept secrets about: * Parental Rights You Thought You Had, * Illusions of Privacy That We Live With, * What Your Own Lawyer Doesn't Want You To Know, * Dangers Lurking in Child Protective Services, and much more.....

About the Author Marian Rubin has balanced a 33 year career as a school social worker and advocate for children with disabilities with a lifelong passion for photography. Her camera is the way she views the world around her and expresses her love for humankind and all of nature.
