You will be miles ahead of your peers. She will guide you with her heart. She will teach you that you must believe in what you are doing. That you must value existing donors and nurture new ones. That you must ask for the gift. Both in person and through her books like, Over Goal, Kay will share her wisdom. If you put her practices into action, you will go OVER GOAL. 11 of 12 people found the following review helpful. Covers all the bases By Patricia Nicholson As one who has been in the development profession for nearly three decades, I recommend this compendium of thoughtful, well organized information --and little known tips -- for fundraising success. Its common sense approach will help experienced staff and boards as well as novices. Whether your nonprofit organization is planning a campaign, engaged in a campaign, or just beginning to think about raising more money, Over Goal belongs in your development library.

For 30 years she's done it. Helped organizations raise money hundreds of millions. Trained them in campaign techniques, annual, capital, endowment. Prepared hundreds of boards and staffs for every imaginable contingency. That hardscrabble experience is what infuses Over Goal!: What You Must Know to Excel at Fundraising Today. Is it any wonder the advice Grace offers is as authentic as fireworks on the Fourth? Unlike fundraising books that ply you with theory, Grace's counsel is real and instantly germane. You can put it into practice tomorrow, if not today. The range of subjects is sweeping. Forty chapters covering everything from donor motivations, to what really inspires a board to raise money, to the dynamics of a solicitation call, to evaluating your fundraising effectiveness, to setting boundaries for board involvement, to using the Internet for stewardship.
