This book was to replace a school book my daughter ...By Valerie SumterThis book was to replace a school book my daughter damaged. I took it to her school to replace the damaged one and after they received it they decided to call the school that had a stamp posted in the book. It turns out the school said the book was checked out to someone at that time from that school. So my daughters school sent it back to that school since it belonged to them. However my daughters school is still out a book. They told me I didn't have to replace it again, but technically they are still out a book.
