From W E Upjohn Inst for : The Decline in Employment of People With Disabilities: A Policy Puzzle before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Decline in Employment of People With Disabilities: A Policy Puzzle:

This volume reports on the employment decline of working-age people with disabilities. The contributors provide documentation of the decline, an evaluation of its conflicting causes, and the implications for public policy.

"A valuable source of data and argument that frames the current debate." -- Labor Studies Journal, Fall 2004
"This book should serve as a starting point for a debate that is long overdue." -- of Disability Studies, 1(4), 2005
"[A] carefully edited and enjoyably contentious volume." -- Industrial and Labor Relations , 57(4)
From the Author
"Given the robust economic expansion of the 1990s and the promise of greater independence that is embodied in the ADA, this decline in both employment and its importance for household income might reasonably be considered a disaster for the working-aged population with disabilities. Hence, it is not surprising that this decline in measured employment has generated a major debate, represented in this book, over the quality of the numbers produced by current data sets and, if credible, the causes for this unprecedented decline."
