Gerald Hodge : The Geography of Aging: Preparing Communities for the Surge in Seniors before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Geography of Aging: Preparing Communities for the Surge in Seniors:

A penetrating look at the coming increase in Canada's seniors, its effect on communities, and how to plan for it.

"Hodge makes a convincing case for recognizing the diversity of community contexts within which seniors reside and provides a helpful roadmap for community officials to allow them to take seriously the work of enhancing seniors' independence." Neil Hanlon, University of Northern British Columbia "Hodge is well acquainted with his subject matter and this manuscript makes an original and important contribution to the field. This is an important and timely work." Denise Cloutier-Fisher, University of Victoria
