From Routledge : The International Foundation Directory 2003 (Europa International Foundation Directory) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The International Foundation Directory 2003 (Europa International Foundation Directory):

This extensively revised and updated directory of international foundations, trusts, and other similar non-profit institutions provides a comprehensive picture of foundation activity on a world-wide scale. Offering detailed information on some 2,200 organizations, coverage spans over 100 countries. Also featuring essays written by leading practitioners and experts, this resource provides useful background details and an invaluable introduction to the subject. Entries are arranged alphabetically by country with main foundation centers/coordinating bodies listed at the beginning of each chapter, followed by the charities, NGOs, and foundations. Each entry contains the institution's name, postal, internet and email addresses, telephone and fax numbers, together with date of foundation, and details of its function, activities, restrictions on grants, geographical area of activity, finances, publications and key executives where available. It includes an index of foundations and a separate index of their main activities and geographical region of activity. A wide range of activity is covered, including aid to less developed countries, the environment, education, the arts and humanities, and medicine and health. Each organization has been contacted so that information is accurate and up-to-date.

There is no other directory to foundations which is truly international in scope. - Reference sThe best place to start grant research ... an important addition to any international studies library. - World DevelopmentThe best guide ... useful as both a reference source and a social history. - Library JournalHighly recommended for all academic and public libraries - SLA Social Division Bulletin ... useful starting point for those who wish to learn about foundation activity on a world scale - Trust Monitor
